Season 1, Sequel 4

Toddler asks: Are you all green, look like you and have a green spaceship?

The toddler is talking to the little green alien and has a question: do all your friends look like you and their spaceships like your spaceship? And the alien laughs, no, they don't even all have spaceships, they all have different vehicles they are living in.

Yeah, this blue guy, or maybe this orange guy with a long neck in this funny spaceship. Oh, this guy, look, purple, small purple. Or this one in turquoise. Now this one who is looking a little bit like a snowman, in his white spaceship. Now this one is running around with his driving spaceship or driving cart. And this one has something, I don't know what that is, but he seems to enjoy it. And this one looks like a bubble, the alien looks like a bubble, and the spaceship, or whatever he's living in, looks like a bubble. And this one is more like a long thing with tentacles, or like a star, look at that, very pointy. Or like a long snake, or a worm. This one seems to have watched too many robot videos. This one seems to like butterflies. This one is like a big sphere, like a big sphere with little extensions. Funny. That looks like a caterpillar, and that like a little mountain, and the spaceship is a big mountain. Or that, whatever that is, I don't know what that looks like. Funny. Oh, that one looks like a tree.

They all have creativity and created their shapes and colors so that they enjoy it and have fun. All are different. Creativity is important, and having fun with creativity is important.

Yeah, so I'm green because I love to be green, and they love their colors and their forms and their shapes. They can change them over time if they want, their ships, or spaceships, or vehicles, or whatever you call them, are creative enough to change it if they want. That's fun. Wow.