

Season 1, Sequel 5

How does Alien "speak" with its intelligent, mind-reading spaceship.

One day the toddler asked the alien: how do you speak with your spaceship; how does it speak to you? Do you have language, do you have words, how do you hear it?

And the little alien laughed and explained: look, I create a picture in my mind, maybe about this one spot in the sky, and I'm interested what that is. I can get the feeling of a question mark and of curiosity in my mind, and the spaceship gets that from my mind, and sends back a picture with information about the planet directly into my mind.

Maybe I send this: how many days are required to get there? The spaceship sends back, look, like four times sleeping, and then we are circling around this thing and will investigate. Or I create the picture: Let's start immediately. And the spaceship sends back: Two times sleeping is required, and then we start. Do I like that? No. I send back a feeling of sadness, and of only one time sleeping, I would like. And the spaceship sends back that they will send me one day of red stuff, one day of green stuff, one day of blue stuff, I have to learn so many things and get them before we can start. And I sent back: okay, I feel good with that, as long as it is fun. And the spaceship sends back: will be fun, fun, fun, and astonishment, and astonishment, and excitement, and wow, and fun, fun. Yeah, that's okay.

I asked: are there green aliens living there on that planet? Just sending the picture in my mind, and the spaceship creates a picture, like these, oh, they look funny, they're a different type of guys and species. Interesting.

But how do they communicate? I sent back this question: what is that? And look at that, I get back: no, they don't have that, they do this, they create words and sounds that go from the mouth to the ear, and then the other one creates the same, and that goes from his mouth to the other's ear. Whoa, I'm astonished! Wow, interesting, but I'm also a little bit amused. That must be totally crazy and funny, isn't it? Communicating with sound. Interesting. That's the way we communicate. And toddler has fun. Yeah, interesting.
