

Season 2, Sequel 7

Little Green Alien presencing the future.

After all these complicated pieces of information about what could happen in the future, little alien just sits down very quietly and looks kind of into a big lake of the future, to see what wants to emerge. The intelligent spaceship cannot see that; only little alien can.

And if it's very quiet, things appear. Look, there, something on top. This appears. It seems to be a sequence going from physical elements, through plants and flowers, going to humans, and then yeah, it's kind of an evolutionary path going to ideas, looking like little bulbs. Every little bulb is an idea. But alien shouldn't start thinking about it, just looking, just looking.

So something there, and over there, what's that? A bottle is appearing with a sign on it saying yogurt. A yogurt bottle. Just look.

All that big dark, looks like space. And in the middle of space is something, yeah, could be planet Earth with its moon. And the moon is highlighted and very red. The Earth is full of red dots. There are red dots outside, the rest is dark space. Just look.

And there, what is that? Lots of funny bulbs living there, it's like an idea hotel, or idea habitat. Ideas living there, ideas working together, ideas playing together. Whatever that is, ideas have their own habitat. Interesting. Just look.

And what's that, yeah, that seems to be planet Earth with all its systems: climate, ecology, economy, people, transportation, and all is controlled by a central intelligent institution. Whatever that is.

And over there, people are living very close to nature, together with animals, with plants, much more integrated into nature than today, and supported by an artificial intelligence and by technology. Just look.

All these elements: the evolutionary past, yogurt, space and Earth, the idea habitat, the control institution, and that, and this little sea flower, this little local whatever that means. Just looking. That is nice.