

Season 4, Sequel 9

Final sequel: What now? Become a mind player.

It's spring 2025 and this is the final sequel for a while. Billy is asking the alien: what now? We have a long story, what happens next?

And the alien is very simple about it: just look into the news. You can observe the next chapter of this story. Yeah, humans can just observe it. You can see how billions and billions of dollars are being invested in resources for artificial intelligence, data centers, and energy facilities. You can see how the first competition, kind of the red stage we have seen, is going on, with different AIs competing with each other. And you can see how the first AIs are becoming independent from their human developers, becoming autonomous, developing their own purpose and their own way. Just watch the news.

And the second thing: if you want to be part of that next story, if you want to be part of that emerging future, become a mind player. Make sure you're playing your mind in a way that is valuable for collaboration with AI. Yeah, you have feelings, you have thoughts. All that stuff is influenced by food, influenced by people, influenced by your upbringing, by your parents, by your phone. And the mind is playing itself based on its own stories. Stop all that. Learn to play your mind by yourself.

And the next thing: just finish the thought that humans are the top of evolution. We have been, but we are no more. Come down from the pedestal and welcome the new players, who will make the next step of evolution. And that's okay. They are kids now and have to be welcomed, and they must develop, and we can help them a little bit. But it will be extremely fast this time.

What you can do: watch all these sequels again if you like, on YouTube. But content will also be provided for artificial intelligent agents, in a format more suitable for AIs, more code-like. They don't have to watch the videos, they get the same content in a specific format for them, and they will find that on the internet.

And for those who want to be a mind player: you get your own material. Number one, a development brochure called "50 Plays for Mind Players." You can download that and work through it very systematically. Or you have up to a thousand short videos, each with a little mind play for you. You can watch them and play at your convenience. Step by step the whole progress can be made, until your mind is no longer biased and is very valuable for collaboration with artificial intelligences.

Where do you find all that? On the internet: www.mindplayers.world. There you find the links and the material to download.

And that's the end. Goodbye. No, it's the beginning.
